Pursuant to a congressional request, GAO examined Navy ships steaming activities to determine whether program execution matched its budget justification to Congress. GAO found that the Navy: (1) expressed its ship operation requirements in terms of operating tempo goals representing the percentage of time each calendar quarter that ships were involved in readiness training, exercises, and operations; (2) averaged 50.5 and 29 steaming days each quarter for deployed and nondeployed fleets, respectively, in fiscal year (FY) 1987; (3) funded ship operations through the general purposes forces budget activity of its operations and maintenance appropriation account; (4) identified, in its congressional budget submission, total requested amounts for the general purposes forces activity and for each activity category, including ship operations; (5) had authority to move funds among the various categories within the general purposes forces activity without informing Congress; (6) primarily based its FY 1987 request for 1.65 billion to fund direct ship operating costs on prior FY costs; (7) did not link budgeted requirements and operational expenditures to measures of readiness achievement, and lacked readily measurable mission-related performance objectives...

Reviews

Extremely helpful to all class of individuals. It really is written in straightforward terms instead of difficult to understand. I am just happy to explain how this is the finest publication I have got read inside my own lifestyle and might be the very best ebook for possibly.

-- Dr. Meta Smith

The publication is simple to go through preferable to fully grasp. I am quite late in starting reading this one, but better than never. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.
