The postmaster, from whom the information was obtained, added that money was so scarce that he was in the habit of cashing the warrants of rural carriers with local checks to use the warrants for remittance to the moneyorder department of the post-office instead of money. The returns of retail deposits of the banks at Sturgeon Bay, the banking center, appear to validate this information. They show 95.9 per cent of checks. RETURNS FROM INDUSTRIAL CENTERS. It has been remarked that the wage-earners, especially manual laborers, probably use checks to a very small extent. If we examine the returns from industrial cities like Lawrence, Fall River, Lowell, and Brockton, Mass. ; Paterson, N. J. ; and Pawtucket, R...
