He sat down by the river-side, and commenced washing his hands, and I could see the trout actually nibbling at his finger-ends-a fact which had to be seen to be believed. He told me many instances of the like, and other strange experiences and feats of fishing which seemed almpst incredible. Another day, when angling on the same river between the Old Castle cast and Heiton Mill, another favourite cast, I met Mr. Stoddart coming down. He was literally clad with salmon and sea-trout; his large hamper was full, and five or six strapped on his rod hanging across his shoulder and down his back, the perspiration streaming down his face and dripping off his beard and hair. I cried, Hallo! Mr. Stoddart, what s up the day? You re killing yourself. He gave a quiet laugh and said, I m doing this to let the beggars see that all fishers are not liars; for the other day, when I had killed eleven fish (more than the half of which I had left with the boatman and other people at Roxburgh), they threw that in my teeth; so of course this will open their eyes to see that what I have done to-day I might have done yesterday. I think he enjoyed the discomfiture of the unbelieving beggars. The meeting with Ephemera at Loch Inver, a very pleasant one at the time, led to a correspondence...
